My dear Friend

After this long delay, I am not able to send, as I hoped to do the missing number of 'Gartain' to complete your box; but by far the most important of it to us, the "Year at Ambleside" these sheets will enable you to complete in your mind, the 'Year' - so full of interest to those who love & revere Miss Martineau as we do, when placed with your other numbers this will recall to your mind one who is always happy to be associated with you both.

Miss. Mitchell writes of Thos. Estlin & herself being at Ambleside but that Miss M. was too feeble to see even Mary - but what day papers that she does not go forth in blessings to thousands. Is the Westminster Article here? I have not yet read it, - to judge by the style, waiting till it is all published in the Liberator.

Alas! that neither Italian air nor Swiss Mountains drive from our dear Mary her tormenting headaches. Would this American climate suit her? What an entire breaking up in Bristol! - ~~as~~ a place however Mary has no attachments for it, at least she thought she had not, ~~and~~ she was even when the ties to it were the strongest,

We have had two delightful evenings with Wendell Phillips; perfectly exhilarating in the midst of the depressing influences surrounding us. All but the outsiders were charmed, & many even of these felt the power of his magic tones as he unfolded the Antislavery gospel.

I have a letter penitly written to Mrs. Follen - but am waiting for further light, which may come to me. Though I do not feel at all confident in the matter. Mr. Furze gave me this morn. some hope that he might obtain it.

Yours ever affectionately

S.P.

A letter just came to me from Harriet Lupton, she says her Cousin Joseph Lupton, thought Miss Julia Griffiths would come no more to Leeds, she found them too well prepared. "Mr L. met Miss G. at Mr Wilsons Armaments who had declined meeting her at Thomas Harveys, & then they discussed matters a little warmly sometimes" These good Leeds folks! how true they are.
